News From Your TOWN HALL

Tarzan Pete exercised his de-litinated vocal cords in the Town Fathers Wednesday night. The gist of Pete's song was not what "we're gonna do" but what "we are doing, or have done."

Wonderful improvements especially in wartime are now in process according to Pete, and Pete's convincing.

When these things are done, then we're going to give the super salesman of the Fla. P. & L. Co. credit—he's a super salesman because he makes you believe what he says with his earnestness and loyalty to his bread basket.

Pending actual accomplishment of the planned changes which are to the full benefit of this Community, let us tell you this:

Four Brass Hats—and I mean brass ones too—of the Fla. P. & L. have been in Belle Glade; two more brass hats, but of lesser degree were also here.

J. H. White, General Superintendent.

E. F. Johnson, Chief Engineer.

P. J. Carlin, Superintendent of Distribution.

J. Wiley Keck, Superintendent of Power Plants.

These fellows were not on pleasure; so listen next week for just what has been done to remedy our power problem—after it's done.

Remember you must file again for homestead exemption, but this year you can file in only the County Tax Assessor's office in WPB.

No doubt Jimmy Owens will make arrangements for you to go to the local City Hall where you may fill out these blanks. Watch the papers.

"Beeg Peerade"
Of WPB Air Patrol
Sunday, January 23

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon January 23rd, 173 boys and girls members of the CAP will be transported to Belle Glade by Morrison Field trucks and planes, belonging to the Palm Beach Unit of the Corps will parade around Belle Glade, led by the Pahokee High School Band.

The purpose of the "doings" is to stimulate enrollment in the Corps by youngsters of the Glades. Rides will be given cadets who have written permission from parents or guardians.

Lieutenant Alpaugh who is in charge of the Glades area says: "Draft status is not affected by enrollment in the Civil Air Patrol, nor does it make those who participate liable in any way for military duty. Restrictions are accepted at any time during the course without any liability."

These subjects are taught the way the military forces teach them and anyone who finishes these courses is just as much ahead of those who do not, if they must go into the military service.

All the subjects are helpful and a majority of them are mandatory in securing any civilian pilot license.

Students are not taken in the air unless a special and additional permit is signed by parents or guardians; permission to enroll does not allow students to fly unless this special flying permit is signed, and above, you can enroll as a cadet and take the course without flying.

There are seven men on the ground in the Corps to carry one in the air.

Classes in meteorology, navigation, radio, and signal, and the military drill, court-mart and guard duty will be conducted at the High Schools for the students, and night classes will begin for those who are not in high school.

Nashville Minister
To Preach Here

Local church goers will be privileged to hear Dr. James E. Dillard, Sr., of Nashville, Tenn., on January 16 at the First Baptist church at both morning and evening services.

Mr. Dillard has been director of promotions for the Southern Baptists Conventions since 1930 and this year has carried him into the 18 states that Southern Baptists cover. Since taking up this work Dr. Dillard has led the promotion of the "Hundred Thousand Club."

The Southern Baptists are one year from debt, the old $50,000,000 indebtedness having been canceled last December.

A cordial welcome is extended to the public to attend both services Sunday and they will be assured of hearing an interesting sermon by Dr. Dillard.

Scuran Relatives
Contacted Through

Pete Scuran, local broker, has experienced the satisfying thrill of reading a message in the handwriting of a member of his immediate family, his wife, law, telling of the well-being of his father and brother, among others. Mr. Scuran has not heard from his family in over two years and did not know whether any or all of them were alive.

His brother, who is, or was, a high government official, a position corresponding to our Assistant Secretary for Health and Education, was susceptible to being deceived, or placed in a concentration camp, so this news was most heartening.

Pete's father who is nearing ninety-five years of age was a cause of much worry because of his age and the uncertainty of his being able to stand lack of food and other discomforts inflicted by the Ratsia who had to help the Wops polish off the Greeks.

Pete, who is a member of the American Legion, has a daughter studying medicine at Duke University.

Mr. Scuran is active in Red Cross work and in other community war aids.

A message and request for information was forwarded on March 10th to the local Red Cross Home Service, and the return note was received this week with stamps indicating handling by the Italians, as well as the receipt of the International Red Cross.

Fourth War Bond
Drive To Get Off
With A Bang Here

Millions and millions of dollars worth of advertising value will be turned loose on the American public soon in favor of the Fourth War Bond Drive.

Billboards, radio programs, posters, leaflets, newspaper space, both advertising and news releases, moving picture films and movie celebrities in personal appearances and many other forms of free-to-our government—advertising will greet you on every hand.

The larger centers will get the returned heroes and movie stars. Lesser communities, as Pahokee and Belle Glade, will be treated to the sight of captured Jap and German soldiers.

Heavy Carloadings
Continue Despite
Recent Cold Spell

419 Cars Move From The Glades With Almost Half Million Value

Two things stand out in the weekly report of movements: (1) a continued volume following a killing frost in the Glades—419 cars with an approximate value of something less than half million dollars; and (2) the fact that the total car loadings so far have passed the 5,000 mark.

Shipping a cool million dollars worth of winter vegetables within two weeks after a killing frost, and almost freeze, makes you feel that maybe the Army "A" Award was not misplaced in Palm Beach County and especially in the Glades.

Encouraging, also, is the fact that 53 cars of mixed vegetable went out. That indicates that our distribution is reaching the smaller markets.

Radishes, peppers, endive and escarole made up a total of sixteen cars also.

The following is the movement:

Battle of Tarawa Told In Pictures
Many valuable pictures were taken by Marine Corps combat photographers during the bitter Battle of Tarawa, including the three reproduced above. Upper photo shows a group of Marines assembling on the beach after surviving terrific gunfire. American dive-bombers are overhead. The brave group, center, advances toward Jap machine-gun nests which they succeeded in wiping out shortly after the picture was taken. A squander points out direction of Jap fire. In lower photo, two Marines make a machine-gun amid wreckage as a third Leatherneck lays aside his rifle to assist them.

Sugar Production
Begun On State Farm

Superintendent W. B. Granger of State Farm No. 2 announces that the sugar mill has begun operation. The plant is a half to three quarters of a million pounds of raw sugar for use of the 12,000 State Farms.

Mr. Granger has been wrestling for more than a year with the installation and equipment of the mill as an addition to the syrup mill already in operation.

Mr. F. P. Atwood has been secured as an experienced engineer to run the sugar boiling.

The operation of the sugar mill will supplement the program of the local Farm to furnish foodstuffs to the war effort of the state government, which include, beside prisoners, students of the two schools, Gainesville and Tallahassee, the deaf and dumb schools' home of correction, Chattahoochee, etc.

The manufacture of syrup, of which the State Institutions use a substantial amount of fresh vegetables, citrus fruit, strawberries, turkey, chicken, ducks and eggs are home grown delicacies enjoyed by prisoners employed on the local farm.

Service Men Who Fight and Write

Furloughs should come more often, say one thirty day furlough every month.

"Hope the boys are very successful and a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you all."

LOUIS C. LOWERY A0242
Louis Lowery was recently advanced to the petty officer rating of Aviation Ordnanceman 2nd class from 3rd class, as a result of examination which he successfully passed. He is attached to the VP-4 fighter plane training squadron on the Jacksonville station as an ordnance man in the squadron's armory.

AIS ROSCOE HARRIS
"The Army has been keeping me so busy that I haven't had time to turn around when I left Belle Glade and went to Miami Beach we had to take all kinds of tests. We were classified as members of the air crew or the combat crew, according to what we made. The ones that make an air crew are the ones that are in college studying to be pilots. They are washing-out at navigators' bombardiers or pilot, 50 per cent of all the boys that are called in. Some flights had as high as 80 per cent wash-out. They will be sent for combat crew training and gunnery school, then be prepared to jump across. I was one of the fellows that guard duty every eight days. They are going to take us out in the country for a five mile cross country run today."

ROSALIE WADDELL, Sp. (G) 3c
Specialist Gunner Waddell has just arrived to spend a seven day leave with her parents here before leaving for Pensacola, Fla. where she is to be stationed.

She received her boot training at the Naval Training School at Hunter College in New York and was then assigned to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., to be given instruction in synthetic gunnery training. There she was taught to assemble and shoot all types of aircraft guns including the .50 caliber machine gun. Specialist Gunner Waddell will now serve as an instructor of the 30 caliber machine gun at her new station at Bunker Hill.

Glades Bank Deposits
Increase More Than Two Million Dollars

Three Institutions Reap
Harvest Of Bumper
Crops

The combined resources of the three Glades financial institutions—Bank of Pahokee, Florida National Bank and the Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association—have jumped approximately 65 per cent, or $2,124,310 since January 1st, 1943, thus bringing these resources above the five million mark.

Depositors had left a total of $5,226,082 for safe keeping with these institutions, and they in turn had only been able to induce appreciable borrowers to take out on interest the small amount of $212,645 of this is composed of long time loans of the Savings and Loan Association.

Each of the two banks gained approximately a million apiece in deposits, with the Pahokee bank showing an edge by about forty thousand.

The Pahokee bank has better than a hundred percent in total amount of loans over a year ago while the local bank loans dropped approximately 13 per cent. The condition of the banks on June 30th, will undoubtedly reflect the fact that farmers are approximately 30 per cent along with the total volume of the season's business and a great deal of the season's capital is still in the ground.

ANNUAL RED CROSS MEET

An address by the Hon. Joseph E. Davies, of Palm Beach, former Ambassador to Soviet Russia—Bank of Pahokee, Florida National Bank and the Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association—will be held Friday, January 23 at 8 o'clock at the Everglades Club in Palm Beach.

Arrangements for the meeting are in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. Henry R. Bea, Mrs. Margaret Emerson and Hugh Dillman, who invited Mr. Davies to give the principal address.

Business of the meeting will be confined to the election of officers and executive committee members and receiving reports of the past year's activities.

"The Chapter has a record of achievement of which the membership may be proud," said Chairman J. Field Wardlaw in a letter to the local Red Cross chapter, urging them to make a special effort to have their localities largely represented at the annual meeting. Chairman Wardlaw has also issued invitations to ranking military authorities in this area.

Every person who contributed as much as one dollar to the Chapter in 1943 is a qualified member and eligible to attend, he pointed out. All the volunteer special services will be represented by their membership in uniform and preparations are being made to accommodate the large number of guests attending the annual meeting. Chairman Wardlaw has also issued invitations to ranking military authorities in this area.

In stressing its importance, Chairman Wardlaw said the annual gathering of the Chapter membership will sound the keynote for another year of great accomplishment.

and Gentlemen--

I Want To Be

YOUR SENATOR

Millard B. Conklin of Daytona Beach today officially announced his candidacy for the United States Senate and issued the following statement:

As a southern democrat, I believe in white supremacy. The present and future welfare of the South depends that the White race remain the dominant race. This is purely a southern problem and can be solved only by the two races working in harmony with each other. This is self-evident by the social, economic and industrial progress made by the Negro of the South in the last fifty years. As a Democrat I feel strongly that certain social and racialistic activities sponsored by the new deal and more particularly by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt are intolerable, detestable and an insult to the people of the great South. Our effort to solve the racial problem will not be helped by the agitation of New Deal advocates and their ilk; nor is the solution being helped by the parties of the incumbent President.

In Amendment Ten of our Federal Constitution, we find these words: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited to the States, are reserved to the States or to the people."

False Prophet

It is often claimed that one of the major surprises of the war has been the ability of American railroads to stand up in the face of unprecedented and unforeseen transportation demands. Perhaps nowhere else did the Axis underestimate this nation more than in the strength of its railroads. Shortly after Pearl Harbor, Dr. Paul Goebbels, Germany's Minister of Propaganda, prophesied that rail transportation would prove to be the Achilles' heel of the American production effort. He based his forecast on cold figures—10,000 fewer locomotives than at the beginning of World War I, and 500,000 fewer freight cars.

It looked like a sure bet for Dr. Goebbels. But he overlooked one detail—the driving force of competent management, spurred to achievement under the lash of competition. The performance of the average freight train today, in load carried and speed of movement, is nearly 120 per cent greater than it was in 1918.

It is no fault of Dr. Goebbels that he overlooked that single vital detail. Competition and private enterprise have been dead in Germany for many years, the same years that the free American business men running our railroads were busy improving roadbeds, eliminating curves and grades, laying heavier tracks and building locomotives that make those of twenty-five years ago look like baby carriages.

It is not so surprising after all that the Germans underestimated our railroads, just as they have underestimated everything else in this country.

Balance Wheel of Merchandising

These are hard days for the forecasters. Their predictions have misfired on practically everything from the strength of the Russian Army to the demand for diapers.

A year or so ago it was freely predicted that independent retailers would be forced out of business in large numbers as we moved deeper into the war. Yet retailing has proved an outstanding exception to the general trend toward centralized industry. Instead of working a headship in the independent retailer, the war has had the opposite effect, at least with respect to his competitive position. For several years prior to 1942, chain grocery stores, for example, had enjoyed an increased proportion of total grocery sales. But between 1941 and 1943 this trend has been reversed to the extent that the proportion of volume represented by chain outlets has been cut out 34 per cent to 31 per cent. Moreover, the indicated revival for independent outlets has been concentrated among the smaller stores, as is shown by the fact that the larger independent stores have registered only a 19 per cent gain in volume over last year, whereas the medium and small groups have had an increase of 27 per cent and 39 per cent, respectively.

When the war is over there will be less excuse than ever before for enacting restrictive legislation against chain stores. The efficient methods of mass distribution which they introduced into retailing were never more appreciated by consumers than in the current period of rising prices. The chains are the balance wheel of the merchandising industry. No one knows this better now than the public.

From Rut to Grave

One of the virtues of the average American editor is a rare alertness in detecting legislative measures that are tending to project government into the affairs of the citizen at the expense of individual liberty. The people should heed the widespread editorial criticism of the Wagner-Murray bill, now before Congress, to drastically increase social security taxes and bring the medical profession under total domination of government.

One editor, in commenting on the bill, declares it "would destroy the private practice of medicine in the United States. It would do even more than this—far more. It would open a road which would lead straight to a monstrously expanded Federal bureaucracy of such power that America would inevitably be transformed into a totalitarian state."

"Frankly," concluded this editor, "I am less concerned with the welfare of the physicians than I am with the tremendous step toward the further regimentation of American life which will be taken if this bill is passed. Legitimate business has already been put in a rut. It is proposed to put the medical profession in a rut. Next, one profession after another will be put in a rut. And the only difference between a rut and a grave is that the sides of the grave are slightly higher. But in time the rut will be deep enough."

The press, no less than medicine, is a highly respected profession. If the professions do not remain free, the press cannot remain free. Once it falls before the march of officialism, all the people will end in a common grave of serfdom.

OPA Please Note

According to a survey of the nation's chain stores conducted by a prominent brokerage firm, a primary chain store activity during 1943 was "policing" OPA's jerry-built gargantuan price ceilings, at an estimated cost of $125,000,000, for which, as the survey humorously phrases it, the chains got "nary a penny of profit or a sweet-smelling bouquet."

"That this job," the report continued, "should land on the counters of the chain stores was natural—they are the biggest (and often the most experienced) in the field. Thus, chain store managers spent plenty of time double-checking every price ceiling, recounting

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

When our masters were pounding Makassy Hill near Sidi Buaid in Africa, Private James Ragale of Brooklyn, New York, was one of the men bringing up the ammunition. Struck by shrapnel, he kept going until he dropped, was awarded the Purple Heart. On every battlefield seen this Ragale, from the attack relentlessly, regardless of personal cost. Are you doing enough to keep our attack rolling through Payroll Savings?

every ration stamp. Chain stores fairly blazed with OPA price posters . . . they did everything they could to hold the line of price ceilings. Each and every chain storekeeper had a tremendous responsibility. . . . "Sometimes this price policing job was discouraging. Many a chain store religiously sold a few pounds of beef at the ceiling price of 39 cents a pound only to discover that the next door butcher had plenty of beef at higher prices."

Someday the OPA will discover that, in the battle against inflation, the mass distribution industry is a staunch ally. Its very existence depends on low prices. For this reason, modern retailers have found in the present emergency a legion of new friends—consumers whose pocketbooks could not survive runaway prices.

Town and Farm In Wartime

To allow food processors upward adjustment of their maximum prices because of wage increases, the Office of Price Administration has amended food regulations covering canned fruits and vegetables, frozen fruits, berries, and vegetables, preserves, jams, jellies, pickles, products, and apple products. The OPA estimates that increases at retail will not run more than one cent a can or, in the case of frozen fruits, one cent a pound. There will be no increases in prices of citrus fruit for tins, peaches, peas, snap beans, corn, and peas.

Tightening Rationing Regulations
As a further move to stamp out the black market in gasoline, OPA has ruled that any local board or special hearing officer, after a proper hearing and a finding that the tire of gasoline regulations have been violated, may not only revoke a gasoline ration, but also may prohibit the use of gasoline in the violator's possession which was obtained as part of the ration.

Civilian Money Supply
About a third (33 per cent) of the United States Government money available for all needs in 1944 has been allocated to U. S. citizens, according to the War Food Administration. This allocation will allow about the same per capita civilian money consumption in 1944 as in 1943. On a dressed weight basis, it is equivalent to approximately 132 pounds per capita for the year compared with the pre-war 1935-39 average of about 126 pounds.

Food
About 440,000 cases (approximately 20 million pounds) of canned pork and beans will be released to civilian consumers within the next few weeks.

Price Rise In '43 Was Small
At the end of 1943, the general level of prices in wholesale markets was ten percent higher than at the close of 1942, and the prices of staples that families buy in retail markets for everyday living were up by about three and one-half percent. This price rise was smaller than in any year since 1940, according to Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

More Tea for Civilians
About 70 million pounds of tea will be available to civilian consumers in 1944—wartime limitations of shipping space permitting. This is about 16 million pounds more than civilians got in 1943.

Lend-Lease Farm Machinery
Less than 3 per cent of the United States production of farm machinery went for Lend-Lease between March 11, 1941, and November 1, 1943, according to the President's thirtieth report to Congress on Lend-Lease operations. Allied need for farm machinery was increased because of military demands. American Flying Fortresses now use airfields which four years ago were among Britain's best farms, thus necessitating reclamation of prime land for use in farm acreages. When Australia was threatened by Japanese invasion early in 1942, thousands of Australian farm tractors were conscripted for construction of military roads and airfields.

Moreover, British and Australian farm machinery manufacturing facilities early in the war had been converted to ordinance production.

British Farmers Are Grateful
The three United States farmers who returned recently from a two-month survey of agriculture in the British Isles reported that British farmers are very grateful for the assistance Lend-Lease farm machinery has given them in attaining maximum food production. The U. S. farmers, whose trip was sponsored by the Foreign Economic Administration, were Chester Heine, Marcel Iowa; Robert J. Howard, Sherburne, N. Y.; and Earl Robinson, Mendota, Wis.

New Ceiling Prices on Wheat
New ceiling prices on wheat established by OPA reflect at least 100 per cent of parity without considering government payment.

Basic prices are: No. 1 soft red for St. Louis and Chicago, $1.72-7.8; No. 1 hard winter at Kansas City, Mo., $1.53; No. 1 heavy dark northern spring at Minneapolis, Minn., $1.64-7.5. Adjustments in hog support prices, which have been in effect in numerous markets during December, will be continued until further notice, with minor exceptions. At markets where no adjustment of the support level has been announced, the support price shall be one dollar per hundredweight below the maximum price in effect at such markets on November 29, 1943, under regulation of OPA.

CAN PEAS AND BEANS, TOO!

Peas... Some like them hot, some like them cold, but nearly everybody likes them. They are canned in so many different ways that you can find just what you like. Not everybody likes green or "English" peas and that's all right because there are plenty other peas of different color and flavor.

All kinds of peas, lima beans, and butter beans are canned the same way. All should be picked and canned the very day the pods are full enough to be shelled. At that time they will be from small to medium size, tender and sweet.

Peas and beans have a low food value and are likely to spoil if time is wasted between gathering, preparing, and canning.

Flat sour and all other spoilage can be avoided by paying strict attention to canning rules. Yes, Rules, they are as simple as this:

1. Check over jars and lids the day before the canning is done. The glass top seals or two-piece metal vacuum seals are to be used, examine the top edges of the jars—the slightest flaw may cause you to have to do work over. The same is true of the sealing surface of glass lids. If there is any doubt as to the tenacity of the seal, use the two-piece metal vacuum seals. Fill them with hot water, seal, stand until cold, then hold upside down and examine for leaks, and don't forget to wash jars, caps and rubbers clean.

2. Use young, tender, freshly picked vegetables and they won't be fresh after being out of the garden all night.

3. Prepare no more than your can will hold and no more than the canner is large and the help small.

YOUR SENATOR

(Continued from page 1) bled by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." We have seen the present dynasty in Washington steadily encroach upon these rights until today the individual states of the Union have been reduced to a state of serfdom, dependant upon handouts from the Federal Government, subject to purges and retaliatory measures for honest and sincere differences with the national administration.

I shall do everything within my power to see that your national government is run in a business-like manner. One of the evils for which the flower of American youth spills its precious blood on foreign fighting fronts is growing by leaps and bounds in this country. The national administration has established thousands of boards, bureaus and commissions each one headed by a dictator who issues thousands of rules, regulations and directives. We employ millions, including coordinators, expeditors, publicity artists, script writers, radio men, legal lights, adagio dancers strip-tease artists and alphabetical jugglers. Among these agencies who possess power above and beyond the law and in whose name you or I or our neighbor may be accused and, although neither heard nor tried, convicted and sentenced, is the O. P. A. This is not the American way of life and although we can for a time stand incompetence, inability, confusion, waste, ignorance, political conning and stupidity in government, when bureaucrats in its arrogance, with its 2,700 lawyers and impractical theorists, begin to impede simple justice, it's time to call a halt.

CINEMATIC CHATTER

By Malcolm Miller

"The More The Merrier," timely new comedy co-starring Jean Arthur, Joel McCrea and Charles Coburn is the new show scheduled to open with the Owl show Saturday and run through Sunday-Monday at the Everglades Theatre.

"The More The Merrier" is a poignant and yet hilarious story dealing with jam-packed Washington and the many devices used to combat the housing situation. Of all the comedies recently screened at the above theatre this one can be said to be one of the funniest and one that no one will want to miss.

Tuesday-Wednesday ushers in two of Hollywood's brightest stars in "The Watch On The Rhine," with Geraldine Fitzgerald, Lucile Watson, Beulah Bondi, Geo. Coulouris and many other well known featured players.

This is the story of a woman who was, and is, the symbol of millions of other women. A woman with a smile on her lips and pride in her heart, waiting for the man of her life.

Tom Conway, Jean Brooks, Elaine Shepard and Annelita Ward come in Thursday-Friday with an action packed drama under the title "The Falcon in Danger," which promises to be one of the best in the series.

Saturday brings one of the old favorites, Johnny Mack and Tex Ritter in "Cheyenne Roundup." This one is said to be well ac-tionated and in true Western style.

This week, when informed of organization of the Stuckey-for-Congress club, Mr. Stuckey said: "As a member of congress there are certain and definite objectives I shall strive to attain. I shall point out specifically what they are to members of the club and they will be incorporated in campaign literature which is now in process of preparation."

HEALTH CAMPAIGN EXTENDED HERE

"We have undertaken an ambitious program in attempting to stamp out venereal diseases in the Everglades," said Dr. R. L. Ringo, who was sent here in December by the State and Federal Health Department, to hold clinics at the various migratory labor camps, as a part of the state-wide campaign to eradicate the disease.

Dr. Ringo is thoroughly competent in this type of work having spent several years in research and the treatment of the disease throughout the south. His enthusiasm is boundless, and the field in which he operates offers almost unlimited opportunities to improve the health conditions, particularly among the negroes here.

Clinics are held each week night except Saturday, alternating between the Oseola and Okechobee camps here; the Pahokee and Everglades camps at Pahokee and one each at Canal Point and Ritta.
